Manufacturing
meets the Salesforce platform.

JACO Aerospace is a precision manufacturing supplier to the aerospace industry. They needed a Salesforce environment that reflected how a modern manufacturer actually operates, from order to delivery.

Order to Delivery

THE CHALLENGE

Aerospace manufacturing is specialized

Precision manufacturing demands more than off-the-shelf software. JACO faced four critical gaps that standard tools could not bridge.

Custom Order Workflows

Order management required custom workflows built for precision manufacturing. Standard processes did not fit.

Document Control

Document control and version integrity are safety-critical. Errors in specifications have real consequences.

Shared Visibility

Sales and production teams operated in silos. They needed a single source of truth across the business.

Disconnected Tools

Existing tools did not connect the dots. Data lived in too many places and nothing talked to each other.

THE SOLUTION

Salesforce as the operational backbone

Madison Ave Consulting delivered a custom Salesforce build tailored to JACO's needs. Every component was purpose-built for how a precision manufacturer actually works.

Custom Order Management

A full Order Management System built natively on the Salesforce platform.

Production Kanban

Custom Kanban process giving real-time production visibility across teams.

OneDrive Integration

Seamless document and specification management with version integrity built in.

Marketing Platform

A campaign platform enabling targeted sales outreach from within Salesforce.

Admin on Demand

Ongoing Admin on Demand engagement to support continuous platform evolution.

One platform. Every operation connected.

The Salesforce platform is not just for sales teams. With the right architecture, it becomes the operational backbone of a manufacturing company.
